

MISS MARGARET FORBES

Society Suspended By War Prepares for Active Season

As the time for the formal opening of the social season draws near there is much speculation as to the outcome. Will it be like many seasons past, one mad round of pleasure with no time for anything else? Will the dark cloud of war, so recently dispelled, leave only the memory of its silver linings? Will the eyes of the social world be so fixed on the bright rainbow produced by the sunshine of the present that the shadowy past, with its hard lessons, will be quite overlooked?

Will these charming younger matrons, who were such ardent workers during the war and have since relieved their elders of the burden of the chairmanships of various charitable organizations, still find amid a round of pleasures, time to devote to the community centers and philanthropic work of all kinds? Who can say? Even though some of the prettiest debutantes of the pre-war period are now members of the younger married set, they have lost none of their popularity and will receive almost, if not quite, as many invitations as they did before the war. Will the fair hands which, when necessary, were turned to the next call for aid, again become used to idleness? Who knows! It is safe to conjecture that they will still devote a little time at least to those less fortunate than themselves and to the Red Cross roll call.

To the spectator on the side lines who the ball of society flies swiftly to the goal, the debutante is a wonderful creature with light heart and dancing feet, giving no thought to the morrow. What a mistake! The debutante is sometimes forced to cram into all too short a day a bridge breakfast, a theater party and tea and possibly a luncheon, with a ball at night. After all that, when the morning comes, she is confronted by an early visit to her mother, a text book, and a list of all over again, with maybe a few minutes snatched for the writing of "Thank you" notes.

The debutante really works harder than any little shop girl, who at least has the advantage of regular hours and even evenings free.

Contrary to the custom of former years the affairs in honor of the debutantes were not delayed until after their formal presentation. They have already been entertained on several occasions and will be accompanied with several luncheons during the coming week, though the debutantes' ball at the Country club, at which they will be formally introduced to society, will not occur until Tuesday, Nov. 11.

This week and next week they will have to share honors with the brides as there are several popular girls who will be complimented with a series of pre-nuptial affairs, and if there is one thing more interesting than a debutante and her coming out party, it is a bride and her wedding.

All of the guests this season will be enlarged to include not only the debutantes, but also members of the Cotton and German clubs, many of the members of which were denied the privilege of the social season, all on account of the war.

These girls, particularly the members of the Cotton club, will agree to be the leaders of society this season. They have displayed an inclination to think for themselves, and though most of them are not yet old enough to enjoy the privilege of casting a ballot, they have already displayed a great deal of independence in their social life.

They have already displayed a great deal of independence in their social life, and have announced their first social event as a contra-dance, or farm party, with prizes. This will be something new for those in social circles and the occasion on Nov. 11 is being looked forward to with unusual pleasure.

An important place in the social calendar of the winter will be held by the Girls' German club, which has been reorganized.

What the meaning of the world war has done to the club is not known, but the members were alien enemies, as the club was disbanded in 1917 because of the war.

But when "Johnny comes marching home" it is very natural that the girls should once again turn their attention to frivolous clothes and festive gatherings, so now that the war is over and most of the Memphis society boys have been welcomed home a very gay social season is in prospect.

About the first thing the members expect to do is to change the name of the Girls' Dinner-Dance club, or something like that, which will not be quite so suggestive of the war.

The name under which the club bunched forth several years ago. If the present club, at which the members are out, the affairs given this season, beginning with a dinner-dance on Dec. 12, will not overshadow their past entertainments.

CHARMING YOUNG GIRL WILL BECOME BRIDE IN NOVEMBER

MISS MARY PROTHRO.

Miss Mary Prothro, whose marriage to Mr. Austin Davis Carey will be an event of much interest this month, is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Prothro, and a granddaughter of Capt. J. N. Thompson. Both her mother's and her father's family have been well known in Memphis for years, and she herself is well known and admired by both young and old for her many lovely qualities.

Mr. Carey is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Carey. In addition to being a popular young business man, he is one of Memphis' favorite singers, and has also received recognition as a writer, having done newspaper work in Memphis, and also having had several poems accepted by leading magazines.

The wedding will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Prothro, and will be a most interesting affair. The bride will be accompanied by her mother, and the groom by his father.

O. E. S. Auxiliary.

The interest of the members of the O. E. S. auxiliary, in the prospective visit of the worthy grand matron, Mrs. E. L. Lewis, of Jackson, Tenn., was manifested by the large number attending the called meeting on Wednesday.

Committees had been selected for the various social affairs planned in her honor. There will be a regular business meeting next Wednesday in the Masonic temple, and all members are urged to be present, especially those who wish to attend the theater party and luncheon.

Salon Circle.
The entire membership of the Salon Circle has been urged to be in attendance at the temple Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The advisory committee for the Jewish hospital drive extends the invitation.

On Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock Miss Florence Schless will hold the regular meeting of the public speaking class of the Salon circle in her rooms at Central high school.

Mother's S. S. Class.
The Mothers' class of First Methodist Sunday school will meet Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock in the mothers' room, on the second floor of the church.

The subject of the lesson will be "The Hidden Treasure." Matthew XIII, 44, and will be taught by Mrs. H. H. Hinkley, associate teacher.

All interested are invited to attend. The class will be held in the mothers' room, on the second floor of the church.

Sacrifice Cross.
To celebrate Armistice day, Nov. 11, the Daughters of the American Revolution, will join in selling small flags to increase the fund for the erection of a "Sacrifice Cross" in memory of the boys who gave their lives in the great cause of liberty and humanity.

Entertain for Employees.

SIMPLE READING.
The governors were listening to the children's reading lesson and her attention was, perhaps, wandering a little, when suddenly she was brought back to earth by hearing young Tommy declare:

"This is a warm doughnut. Step on it." "Timothy, whatever are you reading?" she exclaimed. "Let me see your book."

She looked and this was what she found. "This is a warm. Do not step on it."—The Edinburgh Scotsman.

GOING ROUND NORE.
He was taking her for a trip down the Thames. As they circled round the old lighthouse which helps to guard the mouth of the river, she became excited.

"Where are we going now, Tom?" she cried.

"We're going round the Nore, my dear," said Tom, as he pointed to the venerable lighthouse.

"Oh, really, Tom?" she said in unbounded surprise. "I've heard of 'Nore' and is that 'Nore'?"

COUNTRY CLUB DINNER-DANCE WILL BE BRILLIANT AFFAIR

More than 300 guests will have the pleasure of being numbered among those present at the Memphis Country club on the occasion of its first dinner-dance of the season on Saturday evening.

The menu will be delicious and the autumn decorations beautiful, while the pleasures of the evening will be greatly enhanced by the presence of the debutantes of the season, who, with their escorts, will be grouped at one of the beautifully decorated tables.

One of the most elaborate and artistically planned affairs at the club on Saturday evening will be the dinner-dance given by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Evans, Jr., in honor of Miss Harriet Hinkley, of Liverpool, England, the charming guest of Mr. and Mrs. McKay Van Vleet.

The tables will be decorated in a most unusual and beautiful manner, the centerpiece being a large Japanese hat in a rich shade of red, surrounded by flowers, filled with gorgeous yellow chrysanthemums, around which smaller hats, filled with tiny, poisonous chrysanthemums, in various shades of red, orange, yellow, and white, will be arranged.

A brilliant canopy for the gay assembly will be provided.
